You Can Play The Garden

The Concert Industry Awards Basketball Extravaganza will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday, January 24th in Madison Square Garden. This could be the chance of a lifetime for anyone who has ever dreamed about what it would be like to play basketball at the Garden. POLLSTAR and MSG are pleased to host this pre-awards game on the New York Knicks home floor with all proceeds going to the Bobby Brooks Foundation. A limited number of individual and team entries are now being accepted. East Coast and West Coast "All-Star" teams are being put together, plus there is space for a few company teams. There will also be a free throw and NBA three point shooting contest. The cost to play is $20 per person or $100 for teams of 5 to 8 players and includes a game shirt. Spectator admission to the games is free. Enter the Garden at the 8 Penn Plaza entrance on 33rd Street. If you would like to play, you should immediately call Marcus Young at POLLSTAR (209) 224-2631, since space is very limited. And if you haven't already done so, don't forget to order tickets for the Concert Industry Awards Party before the price goes up on January 15th. An order blank and brochure showing some highlights from last year's bash at The Pantages in Hollywood is enclosed with this week's issue. To receive the special $155 discount room rate at the Le Parker Meridien hotel, call Nick Gold at Entertainment Travel (212) 840-7800.

Cellar Door Plans New D.C.-Area Amphitheatre

Cellar Door concerts should formally announce plans for a 21,000-seat amphitheatre in Gainesville, Va., in the next week or two, company President David Williams told POLLSTAR. Though Williams said he was unable to confirm details of the project, the Washington Post reported that the amphitheatre would be the first major development to follow a proposed Disney theme park in the same area. The venue would play host to up to 45 shows yearly between May and October at an 80-acre site purchased by Cellar Door on December 20th.

The New ITG

The past year has been a difficult one for International Talent Group. The agency didn't have any of its biggest clients working in 1993, and it underwent a significant restructuring as Michael Farrell and Wayne Forte dissolved their partnership. Some of ITG's competitors would like you to write off the agency. Don't. The company, now headed by Farrell in Los Angeles and the tandem of Joel Peresman and Marty Diamond in New York, has refocused its energy for the future. The agency has shed some of its smaller acts and intends to give greater individual attention to its artists. And although Forte took a number of strong acts with him to his new agency, ITG wasted no time in signing several major acts, including Stevie Nicks, Tasmin Archer, and Shonen Knife, to take their spot on the roster. The Solo-ITG partnership with John Giddings in England is still in place, as is Camden-ITG, the Los Angeles-based film, TV and literary wing of the company. And while ITG did not represent any of the Top 50 tours of 1993, that won't be the case this year, as both the Phil Collins and Pink Floyd tours will likely be among this year's most lucrative outings.

Coping With Arena-Size Mosh Pits

Arena managers are finding creative ways to satisfy Nirvana's demand for open seating on the floor during the band's current U.S. tour. Past problems have given festival seating arrangements for large arenas a bad name, but bands like Nirvana and Pearl Jam want to satisfy their fans who want to mosh and body surf. And if a venue won't provide the right atmosphere, the groups are ready to pass them buy. Venue managers are tackling the problem in different ways. The San Diego Sports Arena sold only general admission tickets for Nirvana's December 29th performance. About 3,500 floor access tickets also were sold, and were priced a dollar higher. Those with floor access were wristbanded to prevent overcrowding and security was beefed up. Arena operations manager Mark Neiber said he'd use a similar setup again for the right act. "If we did a Pearl Jam or a Nirvana or someone like that, you know they're going to mosh," he said. "You wouldn't want to have seats there, because they'd just get in the way and basically cause more problems." At Nirvana's December 30th concert at the Great Western Forum outside Los Angeles, an elaborate and very specific seating and security plan was executed to provide a safe dancing area on the . . . . . (Continued Page 5)

TONY BENNETT

Modern rock fans have found something new — new to them at least. After 45 years in show business, Tony Bennett is entertaining the grandchildren of his original fans. And the young crowd is discovering something their elders have known all along — the man who left his heart in San Francisco is one of the best singers ever, and you can quote Frank Sinatra on that one.

Bennett just finished up a tour of acoustic Christmas shows sponsored by major alternative rock radio stations, where he stole the show at every stop. How does a gray-haired crooner who came to fame in the 1950s manage to reach the MTV generation? Bennett told POLLSTAR that his son is responsible for putting him in front of the young adults who make up today's pop music market. Bennett's son Danny started managing his father's career 11 years ago, and it was his idea to put his dad on SCTV, The Simpsons, David Letterman, and MTV's Music Video Awards.

"At first I was dubious of the whole thing," said Bennett. But his son convinced him, saying, "Just do these shows, I know they're going to pick up on where your at." Bennett said his son's vision was right because the interest in him keeps building. "When we finally did these shows, these Christmas parties for all the alternative stations around the country, the audiences went crazy. In Washington, D.C., we did three songs and got four standing ovations. It was amazing."

Bennett said he has been able to cross over because he is still doing his own thing, without compromise. "I'm not trying to meet any fashion that's going on. I'm doing what I was doing in the '50s, but they consider me cool and hip. I've been unplugged for years."

The new-found audience can be attributed to playing the acoustic shows, as well as getting his video played on MTV and VH-1. But Bennett credits the fans. "I think the young adults' tastes are changing ever since the advent of the CD. All of a sudden they hear [music] without any surface scratches and they're saying, 'I didn't know [a big band] sounded like that.' And I think also the young people are starting to say, 'Hey maybe our parents really weren't that wrong.' But one thing I'm finding out is that the young people are much hipper than the jaded set that I perform to usually."

Bennett said even though he has been playing to sold out crowds at prestigious venues like Carnegie Hall, Radio City Music Hall or Royal Albert Hall in London, there is an open-minded attitude that is evident at the modern rock concerts. He said young people's tastes are getting more eclectic. "There's a major change going on. They accept me completely at the hipper stage, and they just go crazy. And they're very bright — that's the one thing I noticed. They're very with it and no one's pulling the wool over their eyes. They can read between the lines and they know something that's phoney and something that's real." Bennett also said playing with the same musicians for 12 years — the Ralph Sharon trio — and being able to keep their performances energetic and spontaneous has a lot to do with his new-found appeal.

But Tony Bennett isn't just a singer. He has a very successful second career as a painter of fine art, and he couldn't be happier with the way his son is managing his dual careers. "What he's acquired for me is something that every performer in the art world would envy." Bennett can paint or record whatever he wants, whenever he wants. "He's worked out that kind of contract with Sony." Whatever he records, Columbia will release. "And they're very happy with it. Each [release] has sold more and more. It's the first time in 37 years that I'm allowed to just be free and do what I know from my experience."

Tony Bennett's new album, Stepping Out, a tribute to Fred Astaire, is his 95th release. Early in his career he recorded three albums a year, but then took 10 years off because he refused to record what Columbia suggested. "When I left, they wanted me to record cover songs like Janis Joplin." When he wouldn't comply, he was told he would no longer be wanted. Bennett had been going "nuts" with his deadlines, so he decided to take a break from recording and focus on painting and performing live.

And he is very thankful for the public's support. "I still kept doing sold out business, 'cause [the public is] very loyal. It was difficult 'cause the record producers always wanted me to do some silly little production song, a novelty song so they could make a quick buck. I always fought that. I want my catalog to be a hit, not [just one] record. So it was worth waiting for." Bennett said he became a better painter during those 10 years, as well as becoming recognized as a fine artist. "Then Danny acquired this really great contract for me at Columbia, and they've been great to me. Sony's just great to me."

Tony Bennett has dates on the books through 1995. Rob Heller at the William Morris Agency has been his responsible agent for nearly two years. "He's done a fantastic job putting me in the most wonderful venues. Almost every date is an event." Bennett attributes the longevity of his touring career to being able to have a circuit to play. He said that it is different today because of the way pop artists are marketed to audiences.

"Years ago if you made it, if you kept your wits about yourself, you were able to sustain and stay in the business because you had a circuit. Today it's very tough. A performer's good for maybe two years. And then they hit bottom and can't climb back up. I wish the producers and the buyers of talent would be a little more sensitive about looking down the line to make sure these kids don't get hurt. Instead of treating them like an obsolescent object — I wish they'd give them more time to grow, give them a circuit to work. If the record's big then they book them, and when it isn't big they don't call them. I think that is pretty cruel."

Tony Bennett will be profiled on ABC television's Day One January 27th. Film crews traveled with him during his acoustic Christmas tour and the piece will highlight his career as both a performer and a painter. This year, his art will be on display at the Smithsonian Institution as well as on concert stages.

Dear Friends and Music Industry Colleagues:

The Bobby Brooks Foundation is most honored to again receive the proceeds from one of our industry's most prestigious celebrations, Pollstar's Concert Industry Awards. We wanted to extend a special thank-you to all of you who continue to support this event, and we wanted to share with you the most recent developments made possible by your generosity.

The Bobby Brooks Foundation was established in late 1991 in memory of Bobby Brooks, the CAA talent and booking agent who died in the noted helicopter crash which also claimed the lives of Stevie Ray Vaughn and two members of Eric Clapton's staff, Colin Smythe and Nigel Browne. The Foundation is a charitable organization dedicated to fighting illiteracy amongst our youth and heightening the awareness of some of the inherent problems in the American educational system.

Our fundraising has included artist donations from the tours of Michael Bolton, Eric Clapton, Crosby, Stills & Nash and Kenny G as well as two wonderful events, of course the Pollstar presented Concert Industry Awards, and the now annual music industry party at CAA on Academy Awards night. We are so proud to be able to announce that these funds have allowed us to "green light" a Cities in Schools Academy in Bobby Brooks' name in his home state of New Jersey.

Cities in Schools is a national educational outreach program which establishes specially created learning centers for at-risk children. We join the ranks of sponsors like IBM, Apple Computer, the Denver Broncos and Time Warner, amongst numerous others, who have helped local school boards and governments refocus educational resources where they are most needed.

We look forward to sharing this special evening with many of you. On behalf of the Foundation's Board of Directors and its many friends, I thank Madison Square Garden and The Paramount for their graciousness in hosting this event as well as all of you for your generous participation.

Sincerely,

Barbara Cane

floor. Forum GM Claire Rothman said that only 2,000 people were permitted on the arena floor, and if concert goers didn't have a ticket specifically for the floor, they were not allowed to come down from their reserved seats. Rothman said the Forum, which has used festival seating at Grateful Dead concerts, looks forward to using the Nirvana seating plan for future concerts. At the Oakland Coliseum, the entire arena was GA for Nirvana's New Year's Eve show. The Coliseum often uses the GA setup at Grateful Dead concerts, but it is not the normal concert set-up at the venue. Other than the expected bumps and bruises, there were no reports of serious injury at any of the events. In related news, Tad was taken off the Nirvana tour, apparently because the band's namesake said something a tad derogatory about Courtney Love, Kurt Cobain's wife, in the English press. Chokebore was enlisted at the last minute to take Tad's place on the bill, which also included the Butthole Surfers. Bobcat Goldthwait acted as MC at some shows. At the stroke of midnight on New Year's Eve, Goldthwait was lowered upside down from the ceiling of the Coliseum wearing only a diaper. He began his descent slowly, but finished with a thud onto the stage. Bobcat's dents, dementia and diaper rash are not expected to keep him from hosting the Concert Industry Awards January 24th in NYC.

Marcel And Mama Go After Michael Jackson

After months of negotiations to determine who will pay for the huge debts left in the wake of Michael Jackson's cancelled "Dangerous World Tour," tour promoter Marcel Avram and his companies have hit the beleaguered singer with a $20 million lawsuit. Avram, Mama Concerts (the German concert promotion firm in which he is a major partner), and Pebbles Music Inc. (a California company Mama and Avram set up to handle the tour), filed the suit in Los Angeles Superior Court December 28th. It claims that MJ failed to meet his contractual tour obligations and he knowingly concealed and misrepresented his ability to perform, which was ultimately hindered by his self-admitted drug dependance and the pending sexual abuse investigation. Avram's high-powered attorney, Donald Engel, said the suit was brought only as a last resort. "Our client was not anxious to add to Michael Jackson's problems.... But we seem to be getting nowhere and we have received no relief," Engel said. According to the attorney, Avram has given MJ more than $2 million in advances, $900,000 alone for the canceled dates. The total estimated expenses for the tour were projected to be nearly $37 million, with MJ guaranteed a minimum advance payment of $5.25 million for the 43 concerts. The suit specifies eight separate complaints — breach of contract, fraud, fraudulent concealment, negligent misrepresentation, constructive fraud, rescission, breach of fiduciary duty and conspiracy to defraud. The lawsuit also claims that two Jackson corporations, MJJ Enterprises, Inc. and TTC Touring Corp., are simply fictitious fronts and they shouldn't be allowed to shelter MJ from personal responsibility for tour debts. Among the allegations made in the lawsuit are: the tour cancellation caused irreparable damage to Avram's business reputation; local promoters obligated themselves to millions of dollars in financial obligations based solely on Avram's personal guarantee that MJ would perform, and now at least two of them are suing Avram for expense reimbursement; MJ and his advisors knowingly and deliberately concealed MJ's addiction to drugs, even though MJ had guaranteed he was under no disability which would prevent him from performing his obligations; MJ's addiction to drugs including morphine and demerol was so entrenched during mid-1993 that there was no reasonable possibility that he would be able to complete the tour; MJ knowingly submitted a fraudulent physical report, which the promotion company used to secure tour cancellation insurance from Lloyds of London, which now may not honor the policy; MJ and his people hid the true facts about MJ's drug addiction until the November announcement that he was canceling the tour to check into a drug rehab program; Avram provided MJ with a fully equipped rehearsal facility for the month prior to the start of the tour at a cost in excess of $1.5 million, but MJ spent no more than 45 minutes rehearsing there; on August 19th MJ requested that the tour be either canceled or postponed because he was sick, at which time Avram requested that MJ submit to a physical examination by an independent physician, but he refused; at about the same time, MJ and/or his advisors became aware that police were about to serve a search warrant on one of his homes as part of their investigation into child molestation charges; on August 20th Jackson jumped on a plane to Thailand and the tour was suddenly back on, solely because MJ wanted to avoid U.S. authorities; the Jackson camp tried to conceal the police investigation from the tour promoter even though it would have a significant impact on the tour; the tour cancellation left more than 160 tour employees suddenly without work; when he actually took the stage MJ turned in a less than "first-class" performance; after MJ was examined by his personal physician in Bangkok prior to the first canceled date, he and his advisors were informed that he was seriously addicted to drugs and that he probably would be unable to perform the scheduled concerts, but that information was kept from Avram; when MJ suddenly canceled the second scheduled concert in Bangkok his attending physician refused to certify that an illness or physical condition had prevented the performance; MJ only performed 24 out of 33 scheduled concerts during the first leg of the tour, and only 16 of these were on their originally scheduled dates; on November 11th MJ covertly left Mexico City and has since refused to communicate with Avram or his representatives; MJ refused to perform any of the remaining 10 scheduled concerts and more than 250,000 of MJ's fans who had purchased tickets for the remaining 10 concerts were left out in the cold without warning; the cancellation resulted in financial losses in excess of $15 million for the various local promoters, as well as for Avram and his companies, which now stand exposed to a myriad of huge liability claims and lawsuits. Thus far, the Jackson camp has declined to make any comment on the lawsuit.

Chapel Hill Concerts Canceled

The concert schedule at the University of North Carolina's Dean Smith Center saw plans for two concerts evaporate from the facility when the school's chancellor vetoed the idea of a Grateful Dead show and the county commissioners denied a pyrotechnic permit for a Janet Jackson concert for which tickets were already on sale. That January 8th concert was canceled by Jackson shortly after Orange County denied them a pyro permit because of alleged safety reasons, even though the same effects are being used without problem on all other tour dates. A spokesperson for the facility said it was an unusual move because the fire marshall's office had already agreed that the pyro effects were within the bounds of safety.

Change Of Venues

Great Woods has announced plans to expand seating capacity from 15,000 to 19,900 for the 1994 season. The increase comes from reconfiguring the lawn seat entrances and adding bleachers to the back of the venue. The Don Law-booked amphitheatre outside Boston also will be able to take advantage of improved traffic flows since the main road into the venue is being widened. Meanwhile, the new amphitheatre Law and his partners are working to build at the old Pease Air Force Base in New Hampshire has been given the working title of Great Bay..... The 1,500-capacity Rockefeller's West venue in Houston has changed its name to the Bayou City Theatre and is now being booked by Promoter Line Inc..... The owners of the Wayne Newton Theatre have put the 3,000-seat venue on the market for $15 million, leaving Newton's future in Branson up in the air. The new owner would have the option of continuing Newton's contract or bringing in another star, said Gary Snadon, one of the building's owners. Snadon said Newton doesn't have a stake in the theatre, but has been offered the chance to buy it. The theatre is now closed for the season, and due to re-open on April 25th, a spokesperson told POLLSTAR. Snadon said Newton will return to headline in the spring if the theatre isn't sold by that time..... Oklahoma City voters approved a five-year, one-cent sales tax increase to finance improvements for downtown sports, entertainment, cultural and recreation facilities on December 14th. Among the plans are a $36 million remodeling of the 56-year-old Civic Center Music Hall and a new 20,000-seat arena. The new tax is expected to generate $238 million..... After closing the Pompano Beach Amphitheater's gates three weeks after its Labor Day opening, the city's recreation director continues the search for a new promoter and hopes to choose one within the next two months. The 2,700-seat shed, originally booked by Florida Suncoast Attractions, has hosted a few big band and jazz concerts, but a spokesperson for the city said they hope to attract bigger names when they secure a promoter. Fantasma Productions and four other South Florida companies submitted proposals to the city. Cellar Door had shown interest in the amphitheatre but did not submit a proposal..... More than three years after rejecting a proposal for a Paul McCartney concert at the Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn., the Board of Aldermen has approved five summer concerts to be held at the Connecticut Tennis Center. The concerts, which could bring the city up to $40,000, are not expected to be a problem at the tennis center because it holds 10,000 people as opposed to the Yale Bowl's 70,000..... Consideration is being given to moving the Country Music Association's annual Fan Fair festival from the Tennessee State Fairgrounds to Nashville's new $100 million arena, which is scheduled to be completed in 1996. The new arena is scheduled to break ground January 20th, and the current contract for using the fairgrounds expires after the 1995 show.

Manilow's A Success In Sioux Falls

It might not be the Copacabana, but the Sioux Falls Arena was warm and wonderful when the man who writes the songs that make the whole world sing appeared there December 14th. Backstage after the concert are (L-R) promoter Steve Litman of Steve Litman Productions, Barry Manilow, and the South Dakota venue's executive director Russell DeCurtins.

Promoters Ready For Babs Bidding Wars

Barbra Streisand made a triumphant return to the stage in Las Vegas New Year's Eve and New Year's Day for her first paid concert performances in more than two decades. Streisand's concerts at the new MGM Grand Garden arena drew more than 15,000 each night, and with tickets ranging from $50 to $1,000, it has to have been the highest grossing arena concert in pop music history — bringing in a conservative estimate of $12 million for the two nights. Both shows featured a Who's Who audience of Hollywood stars, musicians and industry insiders. Michael Jackson also showed up, making it his first live public appearance since he canceled his tour in November. Another surprise was when Streisand invited Saturday Night Live's Mike Myers on stage to appear as his alter ego, Streisand-super-fan Linda Richman, host of the fictional "Coffee Talk." Myers and Streisand bantered like old chums before he left the stage. Streisand, who stayed away from live performing because of her tendency to be a perfectionist and from fear of forgetting the words to her songs, belted out her classics with the aid of more than a dozen TelePrompTers, and was backed by a 64-piece orchestra conducted by Marvin Hamlisch. However, she did get a miscue on a lyric from her song "Evergreen" but managed to get past it with a joke and a smile. Streisand had also shunned paid live performances apparently because of safety concerns. For these shows, nine airport-style metal detectors were used and the bottleneck they caused resulted in the show starting an hour late. At the end of the New Year's Eve show, Streisand emphatically exclaimed, "I did it, I did it, I did it!" And when she was called back for an encore she took a jab at the new 5,005 room hotel, which had just opened December 18th, saying she was glad to be called back on stage because it meant she didn't have to go back to her room. It seems many of the rooms at the luxury resort, including Streisand's, had no hot water. Other guests also complained that there were no soap holders in the showers, the phone system was overloaded and the reservation system bogged down leaving some guests waiting for hours. A spokesperson for the resort said the MGM Grand had a few glitches, but all in all everything was going well. Streisand had said if she enjoyed the experience, she would consider doing more concerts. And her manager, Marty Erlichman, said January 3rd that she would decide within 10 days whether to "go back on the road." Indications are that such a tour would probably be initially limited to multiple show engagements in only a handful of cities. Also, in honor of her return to Vegas, Kirk Kerkorian, a major stockholder in the MGM Grand, donated $3.5 million to a variety of charitable organizations handpicked by Streisand herself. The donation did not have any "official" strings attached, but insiders say it was the frosting on the cake that made Barbra decide to do her concerts at the Grand Garden. And how big would a Streisand tour be? Consensus among talent buyers is that she could virtually write her own ticket and sell it for whatever she wants. That's a fact Sony Signatures, which had the merchandising rights to the Streisand concerts, would support. According to Sony's Del Furano, the per caps averaged more than $40 per person, for total sales of more than $1 million. The $15 average at concerts by superstar level performers like U2, Madonna, Paul McCartney or The Rolling Stones pales in comparison. Even merchandise sales at the Super Bowl, the yardstick by which event merchandising had been judged until the Streisand shows, generally averaged $15 to $20 per attendee.

Wynette Fights Off Life-Threatening Infection

Tammy Wynette was undergoing tests and treatment in a Pittsburgh hospital late last week after surviving a near-fatal bile duct infection. Wynette, 51, was in critical condition and on life support after she was first hospitalized at Nashville's Baptist Hospital December 29th. By January 2nd, Wynette was well enough to issue a statement thanking her fans and God. "I don't remember a lot but I feel wonderful to be alive and want to thank everyone for their prayers," she said. She was transferred to the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center on January 5th. The illness set in quickly. The night before she was admitted to the hospital, she recorded a duet with Aaron Neville. Tests later showed the infection was caused by a narrowing in her bile duct system. Doctors were to enlarge the area by inflating a tiny balloon inside the duct. Thus far, only a January 6th show at the Grand Palace in Branson has had to be postponed. At this point, it's possible she might actually be well enough to return to the stage in time for her next show January 15th in Tucson.

Legal Griefs

Artimus Pyle, the former drummer for Lynyrd Skynyrd, was sentenced in Jacksonville, Fla., to eight years of probation for molesting two young sisters. Pyle was originally charged with capital sexual battery in the assaults on the 4- and 8-year-old girls, but he pleaded guilty December 22nd to a lesser charge. was also ordered to undergo psychosexual counseling and pay for counseling for his victims. If convicted on the original charges, Pyle could have faced a life sentence in prison..... Wilson Pickett was convicted December 23rd of drunken driving, resisting arrest and refusing to take a Breathalyzer test. The conviction stemmed from a May 1991 incident in which Pickett drove his car in circles on his neighbor's lawn, who also happens to be the mayor of Englewood, N.J. Mayor Donald Aronson had also brought a malicious mischief charge against Pickett, but dropped that charge in exchange for Pickett's promise to play a charity benefit concert. Pickett was sentenced to one year's probation, which will run concurrently with a one-year jail term he started serving in the Bergen County Jail January 3rd. That sentence stemmed from a conviction from another drunk driving incident that occurred in April 1992..... A judge has awarded Dee Henry Jenkins, the widow of Conway Twitty, support of $22,104 a month until June. The December 29th decision was the first ruling in a court battle over Twitty's $6 million estate. Three of Twitty's four children, who are Jenkins' stepchildren, are claiming Jenkins was awarded a disproportionate amount of Twitty's estate.

Stern's New Year's Bash Breaks Pay-TV Record

Preliminary numbers show FCC nemesis Howard Stern's New Year's Eve special was the top-grossing entertainment pay-per-view event of all time, beating out a 1991 concert by New Kids On The Block. Main Events Television estimated that more than 270,000 homes paid an average of $39.95 for the special, which would put the show's gross at about $12 million. Viewers who forked out the bucks can say they saw a woman eat live maggots, watched "Star Wars" actor Mark Hamill lick chocolate sauce off a woman's breast, and saw Stern offer John Wayne Bobbitt $15,000 to expose his reattached penis to the camera, an offer Bobbitt declined. Reviews of the show were less than kind.

KIIS-FM DJ Rick Dees, who competes with Stern's radio show in Los Angeles, issued $40 "refunds" to about 150 listeners who complained about the show during his January 4th air shift. The station claims it logged more than 2,000 calls from less-than-satisfied Stern viewers during Dees' program. The program reportedly has given the Fox TV network second thoughts about giving Stern a job as late-night talk show host. The Hollywood Reporter quoted unnamed sources at the network as saying Fox chief Rupert Murdoch backed away from negotiations with Stern after the show. The top pay-per-view event of all time was last year's boxing match between Evander Holyfield and George Foreman, which was seen in about 1.4 million homes.

More Trouble For Michael

As if being barraged by lawsuits for sexual molestation, breach of contract and copyright infringement isn't enough, the Childrens' Peace Foundation of Beverly Hills filed a $25 million lawsuit against Michael Jackson. The suit, filed December 13th, alleges MJ, a licensing company and three law firms engaged in a "pervasive pattern of fraud" in business dealings and product representation, and interfered with an agreement to pay the charity commissions on the sale of MJ-licensed merchandise. And in the sexual molestation suit, the attorney for the teenager suing MJ said the singer is "stonewalling" his investigation. Attorney Larry Feldman filed a Superior Court motion December 30th asking the court to compel MJ to answer written questions in the civil suit. MJ is scheduled to be deposed January 18th, and his attorney repeatedly claimed that there are several legitimate reasons not to answer the pre-deposition questions, including a potential criminal investigation. Attorney Howard Weitzman said compelling MJ to answer questions and turn over certain documents would violate his constitutional rights and the privacy rights of others. The teenager's attorney has been seeking the name of every child who ever spent time with MJ. Feldman is also asking that MJ be ordered to pay $8,470, an amount he claims his law firm has spent on efforts to get info from MJ. On January 4th, Feldman filed court documents in an effort to obtain nude photographs taken of MJ by law enforcement officials. But MJ's attorney claims that the photographs will not prove anything. However, if Feldman is denied access to the photographs, he has requested MJ submit to another search, or that the court bar the photos from being entered as evidence in the civil trial. MJ was photographed last month in an effort to corroborate the teenager's description of his genitals. The hearing for the new motion is scheduled for January 19th, one day after MJ is scheduled to give his much anticipated deposition. And in a surprise move, MJ appeared as a presenter at the NAACP's 26th annual Image Awards January 5th, proclaiming his innocence in front of a highly supportive audience. MJ said, "Not only am I presumed innocent, I am innocent. And I know that the truth will be my salvation." The awards program was taped and will be broadcast January 22nd on NBC. Meanwhile, the PBS documentary series Frontline will examine the media frenzy over MJ when it airs Tabloid Truth on February 15th.

The Demon Dinosaur

A Free Pentecostal pastor is claiming that Barney the purple dinosaur is a New Age demon who is leading America's children into the world of the occult. In Rev. Joseph Chambers' new booklet, "The Purple Messiah," he cites Barney's use of the phrase "Shimboree, Shimborah" as an example of words spoken at a seance. He also claims Barney endorses a politically correct extreme liberal-left agenda which teaches kids that pedophiles and homosexuals are on the same level as parents. The reverend says that Barney is anti-Christian and his program is an insidious attack on the family institution.

We're open to package ideas in the summer. /// BeauSoleil and The Dirty Dozen Brass Band are setting dates in March and April; are available on their own or packaged together for a night of Louisiana's best. /// John Hammond's new PointBlank/Virgin CD, Trouble No More is due January 25th. He is available on his own or to package in April after his March tour of Australia.

Tahoe Agency: Rick Bonde

We have two additions to our roster that we are very excited about; the Blue Meanies from Chicago and the Voodoo Glowskulls from Riverside, Calif. /// The Blue Meanies will tour to the West Coast in March. /// The Cherry Poppin' Daddies will be available in the Southwest and Northwest in March. /// The Voodoo Glowskulls head east in March-April, covering most of the country in support of their new release on Dr. Strange Records. /// We have West Coast avails through the winter for the Cardiff Reefers, Skankin' Pickle, The Strangers and Zero. /// The Twist Offs run through the West Coast at the end of March; Midwest in April; and the East Coast in May.

Ted Kurland: Laurel Wicks

We are pleased to announce the addition of legendary jazz drummer, Max Roach, to our roster. This multi-faceted artist offers a myriad of musical projects ranging from his inspired solo performances to his double quartet to M'Boom to his fascinating theater works. /// The Columbia "Jazz Jam" package features vocalist Nnenna Freelon, organist Joey Defrancesco, and guitarist Russell Malone. All three have current releases and the combination of their music makes a brilliant evening of jazz. Avails start in April when the show will headline the Wichita Jazz Festival. /// In an exciting musical departure for vibist Gary Burton, It's Another Day (GRP) is slated for a January release and will feature jazz vocalist Rebecca Parris. In addition, the Burton Band will feature pianist Makoto Ozone, bassist Matt Garrison and drummer Martin Richards. Avails start in February and run through spring. /// Another great jazz pairing is being planned for two Qwest/Reprise artists, vibist Milt Jackson and songstress Ernestine Anderson. The Milt Jackson Quartet will feature Ernestine Anderson in a combination sure to swing soulfully through the blues and jazz spectrum. The premier of this package will take place in Philadelphia in February. /// Drummer T.S. Monk's newest release Changing Of The Guard (Blue Note) features the music of Monk the elder, and is highlighted by formerly unreleased arrangements by Kenny Durham. One of the tightest units in jazz, the T.S. Monk Sextet is available for concerts and residencies throughout the winter and spring. /// We also have avails for Larry Coryell, The John Abercrombie Trio, Charlie Sepulveda & The Turnaround, and Mark Whitfield.

Absolute Artists: Dave Schwartz

Congratulations to Adrian Legg. The readers of Guitar Player just voted Mrs. Crowes' Blue Waltz, acoustic album of the year over Neil Young's Unplugged. They also voted him best finger stylist over Eric Clapton. /// Some of the new tours we have out include Robert Gordon/Chris Spedding in February/March; Alexander Zonjic and Kirk Whalum together for some rare dates in early March. /// Cindy Lee Berryhill's new album Garage Band on Cargo will be out the middle of March. We are booking a tour in April to support the record. Just a couple of avails in the South left on Billy Cobham. /// Tab Benoit's debut album on Justice Records just surpassed 50,000 units.

Fantasma Tours: Mike Carr

Fantasma kicks off 1994 in good stead with the recent signings of multi-Grammy winning jazz instrumentalist Chuck Mangione and Bahamian Junkanoo upstarts, The Baha Men, who are about to release their second LP for Atlantic/Big Beat. /// Also due is the Worl-A-Girl single "Gunshot" in January, the album in February (both on Sony/Chaos), and their US tour to support product, airplay and television appearances in March. Congrats to "The Girls" for their recent guest shots on both Arsenio and David Letterman. /// We've booked a special engagement for Chuck Mangione at Caesar's Tahoe February 25-26; a Florida run March 20-24 (looking for tie-ins); and are considering sheds, PAC's, fairs and festivals on the East Coast mid-June/mid-July. /// Arrow "King Of Soca" is on the spring festival trail, with West Coast avails April 20-24; Southeast April 26-30. /// Baha Men will support new product with 4-5 weeks of US clubs and festivals starting in May.

Pet Sharks: Cleve Hattersley

The Chris Duarte show with Ted Nugent set for January 16th at The Paramount Theater in Abilene, Texas, sold out within the first six hours of tickets going on sale, so a second show has been added. Duarte is taking university dates only in March and April -- primarily Midwest. /// Vangards taking dates in the Midwest February and March. /// Kinky Friedman returns to Australia in March, touring behind paperback publication of his novels there. His concert video will be available by the first of the year.

Ashley Street Talent: Dave Weiss

We are happy to kick off the year with three new exclusive signings. Joining our family are Blackfoot, The Bogert/Appice Band, and Humble Pie. /// Blackfoot's tour of the Northeast and Midsouth has some avails left between February 10th/March 12th. They are about to release a new album, After The Reign. More exposure comes with the release of a "Best Of" album on Rhino Records in April. /// The Bogert/Appice Band is great talent performing at its best. Tim Bogert is the well-known bass player of Vanilla Fudge and Cactus. Carmine Appice's reputation and credentials are too long to mention. Rounding out the trio is guitarist Sandy Stein, who has played with both the Rossington Collins Band and James Brown. Avails in the first week of February in the Southwest; second week of February in the West. /// Humble Pie's show is generating a lot of excitement. The band's lineup, though obviously not all original, constitutes what a great grouping of musicians. Jerry Shirley, the original drummer, tops the line-up. All those hot lead vocals are now performed by Charlie Huhn, the vocalist of choice on Ted Nugent albums. On bass is Scott Allen who played with Donnie Iris and the Michael Stanley Band. Extra guitar wizardry comes from Alan Green, also a past member of the Michael Stanley Band. Humble Pie and the Bogert/Appice Band are available as a two-act package from Texas up to Kansas for the second week in February. /// On the 20th of December, Tuff wrapped up total of nine weeks of touring. We would simply like to thank all who participated. We look forward to a late spring tour which will coincide with a new album release by Tuff slated for early April. /// Interesting developments abound in the career of Skydoor recording artist The Chance. The band has been instrumental in developing a program for high schools that teaches positive thinking through creativity. A free assembly is followed the next day by a student-priced concert. Dates to coincide with this popular program in the West/Midwest are available at the end January, the first two weeks of February, and the first week of March. /// Stay tuned - more news soon on My Hero, Joker, Girlschool, Golden Earring and Peter Criss.

The tour may actually start about a week before that date..... CROSBY, STILLS & NASH have reformed and are playing mostly theatres starting in February and continuing through March..... There's major changes in the JANET JACKSON itinerary. Check this week's Route Book for the up-to-date schedule..... You already know about the great skiing in Colorado, but along with the powder at places like Vail, Telluride, Aspen, and Breckenridge comes great night time entertainment at clubs such as Telluride's Fly Me To The Moon Saloon, Johsha's in Breckenridge, and Vail's Double Diamond. One artist manager told POLLSTAR that a Colorado tour is basically a SKI VACATION for many bands. A very profitable vacation with the generally small capacity ski-area clubs paying top dollar for talent. Look for the likes of Lowen & Navarro, Adrian Legg, Big Daddy Kinsey & The Kinsey Report, Michelle Malone, and Allgood, on and off the slopes in January and February..... Fans of GEORGE JONES, ALABAMA, and PATTY LOVELESS will want to schedule Nashville into their summer vacation plans. Those performers will be spending most of the summer performing at Opryland. The CMT Hot Country Concert Series will take place at three Opryland venues; the Chevrolet Geo Theatre, the Roy Acuff Theatre and the Theatre By-The-Lake. At this point, outside of a small run planned for their Myrtle Beach venue, the Chevrolet Geo will be the only place in 1994 that you can see Alabama. Also scheduled at the Acuff Theatre will be a live presentation of Hee Haw, featuring alumni from the TV show such as George "Goober" Lindsey, Gunilla Hutton, Lulu Roman, and Grandpa Jones. Also appearing throughout the summer will be the Oak Ridge Boys, Collin Raye, Kathy Mattea, Suzy Bogguss and more..... Name change! The band SAVOY TRUFFLE has dropped the front end and is now simply Truffle..... After Babs, what will be the next big event at the MGM Grand Garden? George Hamilton, father of Ashley Hamilton and current (as of last week anyway) father-in-law of Shannen Doherty told Jay Leno that the newlyweds will "... be playing the MGM Grand in the boxing ring right after Streisand."
